Gun Show Policy Report

To: President - 22nd District Agricultural Association and Board of Directors

From: Timothy J. Fennel CEO / General Manager

Date: September 11, 2018

Subject: Gun Show Policy

Discussion / History:
B & L Productions has been producing Gun Shows for 30 years since 1988 at the Del Mar Fairgrounds. Annually they host five separate two day shows averaging between 6,000 to 10,000 people per weekend. Staff reports the show producers are very corporative, they fulfill contract deposits on time, they comply with all requirements from law enforcement and have very little internal issues in managing the event.

Pros:
Pros of having gun shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds may include obtaining a steady revenue stream from loyal patrons and branding developed over the 30 year history. The events are well known meeting the needs of gun show enthusiasts in San Diego. The show supports temporary jobs for security personnel, contractors, vendors, food and beverage, medical staff, other event personnel. The large number of attendance per show generates exposure to the fairgrounds through their marketing efforts.

Cons:
Cons of having Gun shows include local protests from the anti-gun community, potential general safety concerns, backlash from supporting sensitive issues, and hesitation from other potential promoters wanting to have their event on the same weekend.

Fiscal Impact:

Subject: Laws and Regulations pertaining to California Gun Shows

In preparation for your Board meeting on November 15, 2016 reference the letter from Mr. Wayne Derntz relative to the Crossroads of the West Gun Show, I am providing you the following historical information relative to the Crossroads of the West Gun Show and the California rules, regulations and laws that govern gun shows. As you will note in the report, I communicated with law enforcement to see if any of the information had to be up-dated but according to the San Diego Sheriff's Department that regulates the gun show I was advised that all the applicable rules, regulations and laws are as applicable today as they were in 1999.

With that said, in 1999, then Director Louis Wolfsheimer requested that a staff report be prepared to answer two questions he had regarding the gun show held at the Fairgrounds.

Mr. Wolfsheimer's major concerns were:

- can a patron attending a gun show on District property purchase a firearm without any checks or waiting periods that are required by law when guns are purchased from retail dealers off fairground property?

- secondly, does the District have in place proper internal oversight and mechanisms requiring the promoter and the vendors to comply with all applicable laws that regulate the sale and transfer of firearms?

In order to address Director Wolfsheimer's concerns as to whether firearms being sold or transfer on District property are in compliance with applicable federal, state and local laws, I contacted the Commander of the Encinitas Sheriff's station who has primary law enforcement jurisdiction pertaining to any such matters on District property. I was subsequently directed to the San Diego County Sheriff's Department Licensing Division. The San Diego County Sheriff's Department has regulatory jurisdiction in licensing and enforcement of gun shows. At the time, I was directed to Detective Tom Morton who was a licensing specialist who had considerable expertise in the area of statutory regulations and compliance for gun shows.

After reviewing Director Wolfsheimer's letter at my request, Detective Morton made an unsolicited statement that the Crossroads of the West Gun Show is one of the best gun shows for compliance with all state and federal regulatory statutes that apply to the sale and transfer of firearms. Detective Morton said, in his opinion, The Crossroads of the West Gun Show was more a sports show. He based that on the fact that the show appears to have just as many vendors selling hunting equipment, clothes and accessories as firearms. In fact, he said the promoter should call it the "CROSSROADS OF THE WEST SPORTS SHOW" instead of gun show.

Detective Morton said that any firearm sold or transferred at the Crossroads of the West Gun Show must meet the same requirements as if the firearm was purchased from an off-site licensed vendor. All sales and transfers are subject to compliance with Penal Code sections 12071 and 12072 that regulate Gun Shows. In essence, those particular statutes requires the purchaser and seller to:

- produce valid identification and a firearms safety certificate
- prepare a CA. Dept. of Justice dealer record of sale
- prepare a Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms form 4473 (federal record of sale form)
- wait the required ten day waiting period for both the state and federal authorities to do a background check to determine if the person is qualified to own a firearm. This applies to any transaction whether from a vendor or via private parties.

The only exception to the above requirements is for firearms made prior to 1898 and are classified as antiques.

As for the promoter of the Crossroads of the West Gun Show, Mr. Bob Templeton, Detective Morton said he was in full compliance with the requirements set-forth in Penal Code section 12071 which regulate gun shows. Those requirements are:

- that he possess a Certificate of Eligibility issued by the California Department of Justice. This certificate is issued after a thorough background check is completed on the applicant.
- that he produce a list of all vendors that sell firearms (35 of the 265 gun show vendors) 72 hours prior to the event. Detective Morton and the California Department of Justice validates that they are all licensed vendors.

As for actual vendors, Detective Morton said that all vendors that participate in the gun show are in compliance with all the state and federal regulations. They all possess the following documents:

- Federal Firearms License issued by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.
- Certificate of Eligibility issued by the California Department of Justice.
- sellers permit issued by the State Board of Equalization.
- California Firearms Dealer (CFD) number issued by the California Department of Justice. This certificate validates that the vendor is a fully licensed California gun dealer. Participating in a gun show is an extension of the dealer's retail business. In essence, selling and transfer of a firearm must meet the same legal requirements as if the firearm was purchased at a licensed retail shop.

- any firearm purchased must be retained by the dealer for ten days before being transferred to the purchaser. This allows the state and federal government to do a thorough background check. In the case of private party transactions, a licensed vendor must facilitate the transaction and retain possession of the firearm for the ten days. A fee is charge to the purchaser to off-set any administrative overhead incurred by the vendor.

In order to ensure compliance with the aforementioned regulatory statutes and in accordance with section 12071.1(8) (i) Gun Show Security plan, Detective Morton, in cooperation and support with District Security, conducts both an overt and covert inspection of all our gun shows. Each gun show is policed by four uniformed San Diego County Deputy Sheriffs and a team of undercover Detectives from the Sheriff's Licensing and Explosive Ordnance Unit. Their mission is to:

- observe firearm transactions and compliance with all appropriate state and federal statutes.
- monitor private party transactions
- look for any illegal weapons
- monitor the crowd for any parole violators or any other person prohibited from owning a firearm

It should also be noted that Agents from the California Department of Justice and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms do site inspections as well.

Detective Morton, at the time, stated that the Crossroads of the West Gun Show was in full compliance with local, state and federal regulatory statutes. In his tenure of monitoring the Gun Show nominal violations had been recorded. In addition to Detective Morton's assessment of the Crossroads of the West Gun Show, the Criminal Justice Information Services Division of the State Attorney General's Office also stated that the Crossroads of the West Gun Show was in full compliance with all applicable laws of the state and federal government. Detective Morton said that most of the publicity in reference to gun show loopholes was associated with states that do not have regulatory statutes pertaining to the possession, sale and transfer of weapons at gun shows.

Detective Morton also addressed the issue of firearms that meet the definition of an assault weapon. Detective Morton said that the California Assault Weapons Control Act includes a list of semiautomatic firearms which are identified "assault weapons". Accordingly, those firearms which are specified in Penal Code section 12276 are assault weapons and are illegal to possess, sell or transfer by any means. Fully automatic weapons are illegal and CANNOT be obtained at gun shows.
As to the recent passage of Proposition 63, the sales of ammunition at the gun show will have to meet all the legal requirements of the State ballot measure. In regards to the sale of ammunition, purchasers will be required to obtain a permit from the California

Department of Justice. In reference to firearm safety, prior to purchasing and taking possession of a firearm, the purchaser must take a firearms safety course and upon successfully passing the test will be issued a Firearms Safety Certificate which is required to purchase a firearm.

As Chief of Security for the 22nd DAA, I routinely inspect the gun show and on a regular basis communicate with the San Diego Sheriff's Department re: compliance with all the applicable laws and regulations and the Security Plan required by the California Department of Justice Firearms Division. I recently spoke to Detective Jaime Rodriguez of the Sheriff's North Coastal Station who supervises the four Deputies assigned to the gun show security detail and Detective Stacey Smith who is assigned to the Sheriff's Licensing Division. Both Detectives said the Crossroads of the West Gun Show is in complete compliance with all the local, State and Federal laws that govern gun shows and that there have not been any violations of law. Both Detectives had high praise for the show promoters and the 22nd DAA staff.

In addition, the District is in full compliance with the Division of Fairs and Expositions rules and regulations that mandates that all District Agricultural Associations include specific language and terms into all contracts for shows and events where participants display, possess or sell firearms or other weapons.

The CROSSROADS OF THE WEST GUN SHOW has been affiliated with the District for approximately 30 years. Robert R. Templeton is the president of the show and produces fifty two (52) gun shows each year in California, Arizona, Utah, Colorado and Nevada. He is a chartered member of the National Association of Arms Shows, an organization of gun show producers whose rules include the strictest compliance with the law and safety requirements of any gun shows in America. Approximately thirteen (5%) percent of the 265 vendors that participate in the Crossroads of the West Gun show sell firearms. Currently, his daughter-in-law, Tracey Olcottt, manages the event and is the holder of the required Certificate of Eligibility issued by the California Department of Justice.

In my considered opinion, as Chief of Security for the 22nd DAA for the last 17 years, the CROSSROADS OF THE WEST GUN SHOWS (5 per year) are in compliance with all the local, state and federal regulatory statutes and have operated without any violations of those laws. Under the laws of the State of California you must comply with all the laws of purchasing, selling and/or transferring of firearms at a gun show as you would at licensed gun dealer's store. Due to the strict California gun show regulations there are no so called loop holes that you so often hear about in the media.

It should be further noted, that in 2016 California voters passed Proposition 63, which will comprehensively regulate ammunition sales in California. Per Proposition 63, beginning January 1, 2018 the following rules and laws governing the sale ammunition in the State of California will take effect:

- Beginning January 1, 2018, individuals who sell more than 500 rounds of ammunition in any month will be required to obtain an annual state issued license and will be required to conduct ammunition sales at specified business location or gun shows.
- State of California Department of Justice will issue ammunition vendor licenses to individuals who provide specified documentation, including a certificate of eligibility verifying that they passed a background check. Those dealers already licensed as firearm dealers are precluded.
- Dealers will be required to report loss or theft of ammunition from their inventory.
- Ammunition sales will have to be conducted by or processed through a licensed vendors.
- Beginning July 1, 2019, licensed ammunition vendors will be required to record, maintain and report to DOJ records of ammunition sales in a manner similar to dealer's records of sales for firearms purchases.
- Beginning July 1, 2019, licensed ammunition vendors will be prohibited from selling or transferring ammunition until first conducting a background check to verify that the person receiving the ammunition is legally eligible.
- Ammunition cannot be sold to anyone under the age of 18. Handgun ammunition can only be sold to those 21 years of age or older.
- All ammunition at Gun Shows must be displayed in closed containers. In addition, no person at a Gun Show in California, other than Security personnel or sworn peace officers, can possess at the same time both a firearm and ammunition that is designed to be fired in the firearm.

GUN SHOWS IN THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

California has already addressed the issues of individual, unregulated gun sales and high-capacity magazines at gun shows. Assembly Bill 295, the so-called Gun Show Regulatory Bill, is the law at gun shows in California. Several of its provisions are:

- All firearm sales must be conducted through a fully-licensed dealer.

Licensing is handled by the California Department of Justice, and to become a fully-licensed dealer you must have local law-enforcement approval, a premises from which to do business, a Federal Firearms License, a local business license and a California sales tax license.

- Background checks are conducted for all firearms sales at gun shows.

Individual (unlicensed) sellers of firearms are required to process the sale of any firearm through a fully-licensed firearms dealer. The dealer conducts a background check through the California Department of Justice, which checks to see if a buyer has any criminal or mental health history before authorizing any firearm sale to proceed.

- Dealer Report of Sale.

California requires, in addition to the Federal Form 4473 mandated for firearm transfers, a Dealer Report of Sale. (D.R.O.S.) The D.R.O.S. initiates a criminal background check which includes federal and state criminal record databases. Additionally, California maintains one of the most comprehensive mental health history databases in the nation, and the background check screens for any prohibiting mental illness history.

- There is a ten-day waiting period before any firearm may be delivered.

In addition to the comprehensive background checks which are required, a ten-day waiting period is required by state law before any firearm can be delivered to a buyer. Actual deliveries of firearms occur at the dealer's place of business after the waiting period has elapsed and the background check has been completed.

- California law bans the sale or possession of Assault Weapons.

California law bans the sale or possession of Assault Weapons, as defined by the Code. No assault weapons are sold at California gun shows.

- California law bans the sale or possession of high-capacity magazines.

It is a violation of California law to possess or to sell any magazine which holds more than ten rounds. No high-capacity magazines are sold at California gun shows.

- Law-enforcement at gun shows in California

Local law-enforcement officers are present at all California gun shows to ensure compliance with all applicable laws. California Department of Justice undercover officers regularly monitor gun shows to ensure that all activities are being conducted in compliance with the law, and that no illegal weapons are being offered for sale at the show.

CROSSROADS of the WEST GUN SHOW FACT SHEET

Gun shows which are held at the Del Mar Fairgrounds are produced by Crossroads of the West Gun Shows. The Del Mar Fair and Crossroads have a long-standing business relationship. Crossroads has been producing gun shows at the Fairgrounds for 26 years.

All of the gun shows which Crossroads has produced have been without incident, and the relationship with the Board and management of Del Mar Fairgrounds is in good standing. The contractural arrangement with Crossroads requires the following provisions:

Compliance with all federal and state laws, including the strictly enforced provisions of the Gun Show Regulatory provisions of the California Penal Code.

No assault weapons, as defined by California law, are permitted to be sold or displayed at the shows. No high-capacity magazines are sold or displayed at the show. All firearms sales are conducted by licensed dealers, and no firearms are delivered to purchasers at the shows. They must complete the required background check (California Department of Justice) and the federal NICS check, which is administered by the California D.O.J. The purchaser may not take delivery of the firearm at the show. The dealer is required to take the firearm to their shop, hold it for ten days and get clearance from the California D.O.J. prior to delivering it to the purchaser. The purchaser must go to the dealer's location, after the ten-day waiting period, to pick up the firearm. No firearms are delivered at the show.

The show is regularly monitored by undercover officers from the California Department of Justice and the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives. Uniformed Deputies from the San Diego Sheriff's Department also monitor activities inside the show and at the show entry and exit.

Signage is posted at the entry and throughout the show reminding exhibitors and members of the public of the required compliance with all federal and state laws.

Each firearm brought to the show by members of the public is checked, cleared and securely tied to be rendered inoperable by the Crossroads safety officer, under the direct supervision of Deputies from the San Diego Sheriff's Department .

Firearm dealers are required to inspect, clear and tie all firearms and render them inoperable. Show safety officers monitor tables prior to opening the show. Multiple public address announcements are made reminding everyone of the requirement that every firearm in the show be tied with the nylon cable to be rendered inoperable. Separate public address system announcements are made before show opening and during the show reminding everyone of the requirement to comply with all state and federal laws governing firearms and other weapons such as knives, etc.

All activities at the gun show are conducted in compliance with all applicable laws and show safety rules.

APPOINTEE RESIGNS FROM GUN PANEL

By Matthew S. Brown and Marianne Funk, Staff Writers
Published: June 17, 1994 12:00 am

Former gun-shop owner and gun-show producer Robert Templeton has resigned from a state task force exploring enforcement of gun-control measures, just hours after Gov. Mike Leavitt learned Templeton has in the past pleaded guilty to a federal firearms violation.

Templeton, a Fruit Heights resident and well-known gun collector, was not available for comment Friday. The guilty plea stemmed from the sale and transport of guns to Mormons in South Africa.His letter of resignation submitted Thursday cited business demands and "extensive travel requirements" as reasons for stepping down. And a press release issued by the governor's office didn't mention the court case.

But Leavitt's spokeswoman, Vicki Varela, said the governor was alerted late Wednesday that Templeton, 55, "had federal convictions."

Federal court records confirm a grand-jury indicted Templeton in 1980 on 16 counts of unlawful sales of firearms, making a false statement and aiding and abetting. Two months later, he pleaded guilty to one count of unlawfully selling a .38 special caliber revolver out of state.

The 15 other counts were dropped and Templeton was placed on two years' probation.

Leavitt talked with Templeton, who "chose to withdraw," Varela said.

Varela declined to disclose who tipped off the governor. Temple-ton was representing hunting interests on the state Weapons Task Force. He will be replaced by Randy Hunt, co-owner of Morris Travel.

The Legislature and the governor are appointing members to the task force, charged with studying conflicts among local, state and federal weapons laws and whether those laws should be under state or local control.

Varela said Templeton was recommended by Salt Lake Mayor Deedee Corradini. The mayor differs philosophically with Temple-ton on gun-control issues, but the city had a good experience enforcing its ordinances at his gun shows, a spokesman said.

However, before his 1981 conviction, Templeton had been investigated in the late 1970s and 1980s for alleged gun sales to Mexico.

"The allegations were never substantiated and the defendant never charged," court documents say.

His case stemmed from gun sales occurring between April and September 1976, court documents say. At that time he owned the shop Guns Unlimited in Salt Lake City.

The weapons sales were arranged by Salt Lake men with connections to church members in South Africa, who desired high-quality American-made guns for self-defense.

Gun show promoter receives probation

By Joe Bauman
Deseret News staff writer
Published: March 9, 2003 12:00 am

Like his wife before him, gun show organizer Jeffrey D. Templeton was sentenced to three years' probation for the felony of possession of a firearm by an unlawful drug user.

The felony conviction means Templeton, the vice president of the Crossroads of the West Gun Shows, may never again possess a gun. But his lawyer says he has had no problem with helping to manage the business under those restrictions since he was charged a year ago.

Both Collett and Jeffrey Templeton had pleaded guilty to the charge, which stemmed from police discovering numerous guns on their property. Possessing many guns is not a crime, but it is against the law for someone addicted to or using illegal drugs to possess them.

Unlike his wife, he will have to pay a $500 fine as well.

On Dec. 11, 2001, police were called to the Templetons' home in Kaysville to investigate a possible prowler in or around the house. They found what they believed to be methamphetamine and firearms lying around the home, Kaysville Police Chief Dave Helquist said. Federal agents seized numerous guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Later, the federal court approved forfeiture of 58 firearms, with the exception of any claims that Templeton's father, Robert, had on them.

Jeffrey Templeton, 36, is vice president of the company, which hosts gun shows throughout the region. Robert Templeton is president.

While the case was pending, Jeffrey Templeton's lawyer Loren E. Weiss Benson noted, he failed a drug screening and went to jail for five weeks. Since then, he said, his client has been clean in all tests.

Templeton stood before U.S. Chief Judge Dee Benson last month with twin arm casts and a broken collarbone, the result of a motorcycle accident. He told Benson he looks forward to closure in the court case.

Benson said he had received many letters in support of Templeton. "It is indicative of the very nice reputation that your parents have," he said. "I don't know what we'd get if it was just left to you."

Templeton replied that he didn't tell people what to write and that he believed people would support him individually.

"I don't say you don't have a good reputation in the making," Benson began, then added that Templeton has "neglected your children, your marriage is in tatters — maybe you can mend it."

Benson said he understands that Templeton is diagnosed as having attention deficit disorder, a problem that could require use of prescription drugs. He said of Templeton's drug abuse problems, "I don't have a high level of confidence that they're behind you."

Conditions of probation include that Templeton file all delinquent returns with the Internal Revenue Service within 180 days, that he undergo drug and alcohol treatment, that he receive mental health treatment, that any prescription medication use must be under a doctor's order and with the approval of the federal probation department and that he undergo random alcohol and drug testing.

Benson said he was not to possess or be in direct contact with firearms, and asked if he could do that for the next 36 months even though he is a gun show promoter. Weiss said Templeton has managed to do that for the past year.

The prosecutor, Assistant U.S. Attorney Brett L. Tolman, said that as a convicted felon, Templeton can never posses guns again. The prohibition is not only for the three years of his probation, he said.

The judge said he wanted to give Templeton fair warning: "If you violate these conditions of probation . . . I will send you to prison."

If Templeton can show that he has made improvements and has stabilized, Benson said, his length of probation might be reduced.

Meth use suspected of causing Fruit Heights house fire

FRUIT HEIGHTS (News4Utah) - What started as a house fire Tuesday morning ended with an illegal drug investigation and a man in jail.

The fire broke out around 7 a.m. in a basement bedroom of a house at 604 South Mountain Road.

A collection of toys decorates the front yard of that house but we're told that no children live there. The couple residing there and their pets got out safely but neighbors say the man was reluctant to call 911, possibly because of how the fire started.

Detective Ty Berger of the Davis County Sheriff's Department explained the source.

"It was an open source flame," Det. Berger said. "The fire crews as they were battling the fire and putting that fire out found some items inside that bedroom, inside where the fire was that was suspicious in nature and drug related."

51 year old Jeffrey David Templeton was arrested and booked into the Davis County Jail on an outstanding warrant for a previous charge of Driving Under the Influence of a Controlled Substance Resulting in Injury. News4Utah asked Detective Berger if Templeton was operating a drug lab there.

51 year old Jeffrey David Templeton was arrested on an outstanding warrant for a previous charge after a housefire Tuesday morning.

"Manufacturing has been ruled out," Det. Berger said. "It looks like it's just drug use that potentially got away from the person that was using the narcotics...It would be consistent with the use of methamphetamine."

Janet Moyes lives next door and didn't know anything about meth in the house.

"It is kind of surprising," she said.

Asked if she was concerned about the presence of narcotics next door, Moyes said "Well of course. Anybody would be concerned, yeah we're no exception but they have been decent with us.

The Davis County Sheriff's Office Mobile Command Center arrived as investigators continued to process this scene. They claim the backyard contains dozens of vehicles resembling a scene "from the TV show Hoarders".

The Sheriff's Department says that Templeton could face drug possession charges depending on exactly what they found inside that house.

Re: Correcting Mis-information About Crossroads of the West Gun Show

Dear Mr. Fennell:

We are writing on behalf of our client B & L Productions, Incorporated ("B & L") dba Crossroads of the West Gun Shows ("Crossroads").

There is currently an ongoing and well-coordinated and organized effort by well financed lobbying groups in the state to end gun shows throughout California, and to eliminate these forums of ideas and legal commerce. These groups want to eliminate any event where individuals who believe in the right to keep and bear arms might gather. To that end, these groups have repeatedly made misleading and disparaging statements, spread rumors and innuendo, and made false accusations as they attempt to discredit and demonize a lawfully operating business. This smear campaign to demonize gun shows and its owners is being used to advance their attacks on gun shows in the hope that the boards governing these public forums, like the Del Mar Fairgrounds, will be convinced to no longer allow gun shows to take place on the public property that they oversee.

In response to the false and misleading reports and inaccurate public comments that have been submitted to the Board of Directors for the Del Mar Fairgrounds, we provide the following information.

1. The Promoters of the Crossroads Gun Shows Have Been Vetted and Approved by the California Department of Justice ("DOJ")

The DOJ is the responsible government agency for conducting background checks on persons who apply for a Certificate Of Eligibility ("COE"). COE's are required for promoters of gun shows in California.[1]

Tracy Olcott and her brother Robert J. Templeton have each had background checks by and issued a COE from the California DOJ. (Exhibit 1)

California law provides that a CEO is issued to a person, but not to a company. A COE is basically an ongoing background check of an individual person that occurs routinely at least every year. Unless an individual person applying for a COE is prohibited from owning or possessing firearms, the DOJ "shall" issue a COE to the eligible individual.[2] A COE applicant is not required to provide information about family members, friends, company information, or acquaintances to obtain a COE. Approval is based upon the individual applicant passing the DOJ background check process.

Under penalty of perjury, the DOJ has noted that it has issued Tracy Olcott a valid COE credential to operate the Crossroads Gun Shows.

2. The DOJ Conducts Background Checks On All Registered Vendors at Gun Shows. Gun Show Operators Do Not Have Access to These State Records Databases.

Opponents of Crossroads have attempted to connect Crossroads to a gun show vendor/ exhibitor who was arrested for selling armor piercing ammunition in another state.

Each week that a gun show takes place, a list of all exhibitors/vendors who want to sell firearms at a gun show is submitted to the DOJ for approval. Included on this list are the seller's addresses, phone numbers, driver's license number and their COE license number issued by DOJ (all vendors of firearms and ammunition at a gun show must possess a valid COE from the DOJ)..

Only those vendors/individuals with approval from the DOJ can facilitate a sale of firearm or ammunition at a gun show. No one wants unlawful sales to occur at gun shows (or anywhere). That is why both Crossroads and the DOJ make sure that background checks have been completed on each gun show vendor/exhibitor, and that each vendor/exhibitor is properly licensed to sell firearms or ammunition.

As far as we know, no illegal sales have occurred at a Crossroads show. If the opponents of gun show do not like the vendor approval process dictated by state law, they should take this up with the legislature or the DOJ, since it is DOJ's responsibility to approve all vendors/exhibitors requiring a COE to do business at gun shows.

3. Illegal Transactions Are Not Occurring at Crossroads Gun Shows

Gun shows are some of the most heavily regulated events in the entire state. California gun shows are some of the most regulated shows in the entire country. (Exhibit 2) Both local police officers and DOJ special agents (both uniform and undercover) patrol every single Crossroads gun show. Local and state law enforcement agencies work with Crossroads security personnel to ensure the safety and security of all guests and attendees.

To be clear: there is a very strict and comprehensive process to purchase a firearm in California, and that process applies throughout the state, including at gun shows. Every single firearm sold in California must be transferred through a state and federally licensed firearm dealer ("FFL"). The FFL keeps detailed records of the transaction and the buyer as required by state and federal law. A potential firearm purchaser must pass both a written and physical test to qualify for a state issued Firearm Safety Certificate. Before a firearm can be transferred to a buyer, the buyer must pass a background check conducted by the DOJ. The purchaser must wait at least 10 days before they can take possession of a firearm. No gun purchases are actually completed at any California gun show. The sale can only be initiated through a properly licensed FFL at a gun show, but the actual transfer and delivery takes place at least ten days later, at a registered commercial FFL storefront. For each step of the process the FFL must complete the proper federal paperwork and record the transaction both online and in a record book which is audited by DOJ and ATF. The process for purchasing a firearm at a gun show is the same as if it were purchased at any retail store. There are no exceptions to this process for gun shows. (Exhibit 3)

Opponents reference a 2013 lawsuit in which the City Attorney for San Francisco initiated litigation against several companies that sold legal magazine repair kits in California, alleging that those kits were being used to make illegal "large capacity" ammunition magazines. B&L was one of several defendants in that action. B&L was quickly released from the suit. Significantly, at no time was B&L itself accused of selling illegal magazines. Rather, the City accused B&L of allowing these legal repair kits to be sold by vendors/exhibitors at Crossroads shows, somehow knowing that the legal repair kits would be used to make illegal "large capacity" magazines after the buyer took the repair kit home. Of course, Crossroads had no way of knowing whether these legal repair kits were being misused by some buyers to make illegal magazines. Nonetheless, once this was brought to B&L's attention, Crossroads voluntarily banned its vendors/exhibitors from selling these legal repair kits.

Opponents of the gun show have twisted that action brought by San Francisco and now claim that B & L was "selling 'large capacity magazines'" at Crossroads gun shows in violation of state law. To be clear, neither Crossroads nor B & L sold any such thing. The vendors and exhibitors at the Crossroads show sell things. Some vendors were apparently selling magazine repair kits -- which were legal to sell in California at the time of the action. Again, all transactions were conducted under the watchful eye of law enforcement. Significantly, page three of this settlement and order notes that these repair kits may continue to be sold. (Exhibit 4) To present the facts of this case as if Crossroads was "caught" in some kind of illegal activity is simply deceitful and misleading.

4. Mr. Templeton's Right to Possess Firearms Has Been Fully Restored

Opposition to the gun show also insinuate that Bob Templeton, namesake and retired head of B & L, is a dangerous criminal that the Board should not be doing business with. Mr. Templeton has explained in the past that he did have a very old, non-violent, federal conviction from 1980 that did not occur in the state of California. Mr. Templeton was essentially given probation for this offense, but the conviction did result in Mr. Templeton temporarily losing his right to possess firearms. But because this was a non-violent offense and he was expressly determined by the prosecutor and the court to not be a threat to public safety (Exhibit 5), in 1989 Mr. Templeton had his rights to acquire, transfer, receive, ship and possess firearms fully restored under the law.

The 1968 Gun Control Act provides that a person is not considered "convicted" if he has had his civil rights restored or set aside as Mr. Templeton has.[3] Since his conviction was vacated[4] and rights restored, Mr. Templeton's conviction has been expunged and he is legally eligible for and could be issued a COE and be a promoter of a gun show in California if he wanted to.

5. Viewpoint Discrimination

Viewpoint discrimination is not always written or spoken, more often it is carried out less visibly through the exercise of governmental discretion. Viewpoint discrimination by government bodies is particularly disfavored by the courts. When one interest group attempts to exercise their will over others, demands that their opinion is more valuable or "right" than others, and attempts to censor the other viewpoint, that is viewpoint discrimination.

"A common sense understanding of the prohibition against viewpoint discrimination is that government should be prevented from intervening into an ongoing political controversy by silencing one side of the dispute."[5] Justice Alito in a 2017 Supreme Court opinion noted that "[w]e have said time and again that the public expression of ideas may not be prohibited merely because the ideas are themselves offensive to some of the hearers."[6] The Court has further noted that "Commercial speech is no exception," the Court explained, that the principle of the First Amendment "requires heightened scrutiny whenever the government creates a regulation of speech because of disagreement with the message it conveys."[7] Unlike content based discrimination, discrimination based on viewpoint, including a regulation that targets speech for its offensiveness, remains of serious concern in the commercial context.[8]

There is a concerted effort being made to push Crossroads out of public venues because a well-organized interest group does not agree with the beliefs of the guests who attend gun shows. But these gun show opponents should not be allowed to deem lawful activity "bad" just because they don't agree with it. Selling firearms, while heavily regulated, is still a lawful activity in the state of California. Allowing discriminatory actions to be taken against B & L based on the opposing viewpoint is unconstitutional. If these opponents don't like the educational, patriotic, self-reliance, natural resource conservation, and other messages being sent at the Crossroads show, their remedy is simple. Don't attend.

Our client again requests that the Board continue the good relationship it has with B & L and Crossroads and continue to honor upcoming contracts. B &L goes above and beyond to maintain a safe and family friendly show that teaches the public about safety, legal aspects of firearm ownership, and the constitutional rights of those who choose to own a firearm.

The government has essentially given itself a monopoly on venues large enough to be suitable for holding an event like a Crossroads gun show. The Board should end this relentless effort to ban the use of a public forum to conduct lawful and immensely popular events that are suitable for all ages to attend.

Sincerely,
Michel & Associates, P.C.

As a threshold matter, firearm transfers are prohibited from taking place at any gun show in California absent very limited exceptions applicable to law enforcement.[1] Instead, all transactions must generally be processed by a California licensed firearms dealer.[2] This allows the dealer to conduct the necessary background check, ensure the firearm is properly registered to the purchaser, and to hold the firearm for the required 10-day waiting period before delivering it to the purchaser.[3]

I. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS FOR ALL GUN SHOW PRODUCERS AND VENDORS

All gun show producers must possess a valid certificate of eligibility issued by the California Department of Justice, and must:

- Certify that they are familiar with all California laws regarding gun shows;
- Possess a minimum of $1,000,000 liability insurance;
- Provide an annual list of shows or events to be held to the California Department of Justice; and,
- Notify the California Department of Justice no later than 30 days prior to the gun show or event of any changes to the above.[4]

Producers must make available to law enforcement a complete and accurate list of all vendors that will participate in the show for the purposes of selling, leasing, or transferring firearms.[5]

[1] See Cal. Penal Code § 27310 (requiring all firearm transfers at gun shows to comply with state and federal law); Cal. Penal Code § 26805 (prohibiting the sale or transfer of a firearm by a licensed dealer at any location other than the dealer's premises as listed on their license, but allowing dealers to prepare documents at a gun show in preparation for sale at the dealer's premises); Cal. Penal Code § 27545 (requiring all firearm transactions to be processed through a licensed dealer when neither party is a licensed firearms dealer).

[2] Cal. Penal Code § 27545.

[3] Cal. Penal Code § 27540.

[4] Cal. Penal Code § 27200.

[5] Cal. Penal Code § 27205.

Producers must prepare an annual event and security plan and schedule to the California Department of Justice and any local law enforcement agency. The plan must include:

- The type of show or event;
- The estimated number of vendors offering firearms for sale or display;
- The estimated number of attendees;
- The number of entrances and exits at the event;
- The location, dates, and times of the event;
- The contact person and telephone number for both the producer and the facility;
- The number of sworn peace officers employed by the producer or facility's manager who will be present at the event; and,
- The number of non-sworn security personnel employed by the producer of the facility's manager who will be present at the event.[6]

Producers must inform prospective vendors of all California laws regarding gun shows.[7]

Producers must submit a list of all prospective vendors and designated firearm transfer agents who are licensed firearms dealers to the California Department of Justice no later than seven days prior to the event for the purpose of determining whether the vendors possess a valid license and are thus eligible to participate in the event.[8] If it is determined that a vendor does not possess a valid license, the California Department of Justice will notify the producer prior to the commencement of the event, and will then prohibit the vendor from participating in the event.[9]

If a licensed firearms dealer fails to cooperate with a producer, or fails to comply with all applicable California laws, that dealer will be prohibited from participating in the event.[10]

If a producer fails to inform all prospective vendors of California's laws, or fails to submit a list of all prospective vendors to the California Department of Justice, the event cannot commence.[11]

All producers must have written contracts with each vendor selling firearms at the event.[12]

Producers must post signs in a readily visible location at each public entrance to the event that includes all of the following notices:

[11] Cal. Penal Code § 27230.

[12] Cal. Penal Code § 27235.

- "This gun show follows all federal, state, and local firearms and weapons laws, without exception.
- Any firearm carried onto the premises by any member of the public will be checked, cleared of any ammunition, and secured in a manner that prevents it from being operated, and an identification tag or sticker will be attached to the firearm before the person is allowed admittance to the show.
- No member of the public under the age of 18 years shall be admitted to the show unless accompanied by a parent, grandparent, or legal guardian.
- All firearms transfers between private parties at the show shall be conducted through a licensed dealer in accordance with applicable state and federal laws.
- Persons possessing firearms at this facility must have in their immediate possession government-issued photo identification and display it upon the request to any security officer or any peace officer, as defined in Section 830."[13]

Producers must also post signs in a readily visible location at each entrance to the parking lot at the event stating:

- "The transfer of firearms on the parking lot of this facility is a crime."[14]

A willful failure of a producer to comply with any of California's applicable laws is considered a misdemeanor punishable with a fine of up to $2,000 and will render the producer ineligible for a gun show producer's license for one year.[15] Subsequent offenses are grounds for suspension of a producer's certificate of eligibility.[16]

A willful failure of a producer to post the required signs is considered a misdemeanor punishable with a fine of up to $1,000 for the first offense and up to $2,000 for subsequent offenses.[17] Subsequent offenses will render the producer ineligible for a gun show producer license for one year.[18]

II. THE GUN SHOW ENFORCEMENT AND SECURITY ACT OF 2000

The Gun Show Enforcement and Security Act of 2000 was part of a larger policy debate about banning gun shows in the state. Thanks to testimony offered by DOJ representatives which warned legislators that banning gun shows would push gun sales into the black market, more restrictions on gun shows were implemented as safeguards. Just this week, in the California State Legislative Hearings of the Public Safety Committee, again the DOJ position that banning gun shows would be detrimental to safety and keeping these transactions out in the open was echoed by Assemblyman Quirk when he stated that *"that this is a situation where [at gun shows] all of the laws are observed and if people don't buy a gun here, I am worried that they will buy a gun in a place where all of those laws are not observed."[19] Assemblyman Quirk refused to support a bill that would shut down a gun show in the state.

All gun show vendors must certify in writing to the show's producer that they:

- Will not display, possess, or offer for sale any firearms, knives, or weapons for which possession or sale is prohibited;
- Acknowledge that they are responsible for knowing and complying with all applicable federal, state, and local laws dealing with the possession and transfer of firearms;
- Will not engage in activities that incite or encourage hate crimes;
- Will process all transfers of firearms through licensed firearms dealers as required by state law;
- Will verify that all firearms in their possession will be unloaded, and that the firearms will be secured in a manner that prevents them from being operated except for brief periods when the mechanical condition of the firearm is being demonstrated to a prospective buyer;
- Have provided all required information to the producer under Penal Code section 27320; and,
- Will not display or possess black powder or offer it for sale.[20]

All firearms transfers at gun shows must be processed in accordance with all applicable state and federal laws.[21]

Ammunition may only be displayed in closed original factory boxes or other closed containers, with the only exception for showing the ammunition to a prospective buyer.[22]

Before participating in an event, every vendor who intends to sell firearms must provide the producer with all of the following information relative to the vendor, the vendor's employees, and other persons, compensated or not, who will be working or otherwise providing services to the public at the vendor's display space:

- The person's complete name;
- The person's driver's license or state-issued identification card number; and,
- The person's date of birth.[23]

The producer must keep all vendor information at the onsite headquarters of the event and regular place of business for two weeks after the conclusion of the event and make available the information to any peace officer upon request.[24]

All vendors and their employees must wear a name tag indicating their first and last name.[25]

No person other than security personnel or law enforcement are allowed to possess both a firearm and ammunition for that firearm at the same time, with the exception of vendors who are selling both.[26]

No member of the public under 18 years of age may enter the event or be permitted to remain unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.[27]

Anyone other than security or law enforcement who brings a firearm into the event must have the firearm checked, cleared of any ammunition, secured in a manner that prevents them from being operated, and have a tag or sticker attached to the firearm prior to being allowed admittance.[28] The tag or sticker must state that all firearm transfers must be conducted through a licensed dealer in accordance with all applicable state and federal laws, and must also include the owner's signature, printed name, and identification number from the owner's government-issued identification.[29]

Any person who possess a firearm at a gun show or event must have a government-issued photo identification in their immediate possession and must display it upon request to any security personnel or peace officer.[30]

Any unintentional first-time violations of the Gun Show Enforcement and Security Act of 2000 are considered infractions.[31] However, willful violations and subsequent offenses are considered misdemeanors.[32]

Crossroads of the West Gun Shows have continued to make improvements to their operation protocols which may serve to address some concerns by community members. In addition to complying will all applicable laws, Crossroads Gun Shows have implanted the following additional safety procedures including:

- Retaining the services of a retired California DOJ Bureau of Firearms Enforcement Officer to actively monitor activities at shows and insure compliance with state laws;

- Actively surveilling the shows to ensure all merchandise at the shows is legal and compliant with all applicable laws;

- Increased scrutiny of anyone bringing in a personal firearm for the purposes of repair, appraisal, or repair;

- Education of attendees regarding current transfer of firearm laws and that any such transfer must be through a licensed dealer per applicable law;

- Enforcing new laws regarding ammunition sales where ammunition must be kept behind a barrier and out of reach of the public and only licensed dealers may sell ammunition;

- All employees of any ammunition seller must have a background check and be in possession of a valid Certificate of Eligibility issued by the California DOJ; and,

- Stricter monitoring of shows by contracted security personnel to ensure that no one under the age of 18 is admitted without a supervising adult.

III. PROHIBITING LAWFUL ACTIONS AT GUN SHOWS WOULD VIOLATE CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLES

Any proposal requiring the Show to be discontinued would be problematic since it would likely be unconstitutional and lead to possible litigation. Banning the Show would be an improper content-based restriction that violates the First Amendment, unduly and unjustly burdens activity protected by the Second Amendment, and makes classifications affecting those fundamental rights in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause.

Plaintiff the People of the State of California, acting by and through San Francisco City Attorney Dennis J. Herrera ("Plaintiff") and defendant B & L Productions, Inc. ("B & L Productions"), having executed a Settlement Agreement, present this stipulated injunction and order for entry of judgment to Department 304 of the San Francisco Superior Court. Plaintiff and B & L Productions consent to entry of this Stipulated Injunction and Order for Entry of Judgment by the Court, and Plaintiff and B & L Productions waive their respective rights to a noticed motion, hearing, or trial. The Plaintiff and B & L Productions agree that this Stipulated Injunction and Order for Entry of Judgment shall be entered and become final for all purposes upon entry thereof, and each party to this Stipulated Injunction and Order for Entry of Judgment waives any right to appeal therefrom.

The Plaintiff and B & L Productions hereby request that this Court retain jurisdiction pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 664.6 to enforce their Settlement Agreement.

Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED as follows:

A. JURISDICTION. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this lawsuit as set forth in the allegations of the Complaint against B & L Productions and over the Plaintiff and B & L Productions to make further orders and directions as may be necessary or appropriate for the construction, application or carrying out of the provisions herein.

B. INJUNCTION. B & L Productions shall prohibit exhibitors or vendors at all B & L Production events held in the State of California from offering or displaying for sale or selling any magazine box, tube, body, or drum, which, with or without modification, is capable of holding more than ten rounds, subject to the following exceptions and terms:

a. B & L Productions shall be released from the obligation set forth in the preceding paragraph in the event the sale of such parts is deemed legal or permissible by any subsequent:

i. Agreement between Plaintiff and any other defendant in this litigation;

ii. Final judgment in the Litigation or any other litigation that holds that restrictions on the possession, importation, manufacture or sale of magazines capable of holding more than ten rounds are unconstitutional, or that holds that the importation or sale of magazines capable of holding more than ten rounds in California must be permitted, or that expressly holds that the importation or sale in California of magazine boxes, tubes, bodies, or drums, which are capable of holding more than ten rounds must be permitted; provided that, upon motion of B&L Productions, the San Francisco Superior Court finds and determines that said final judgment or order indeed permits the conduct that B&L Productions proposes to engage in; or

iii. Any change in statute that permits the importation or sale of magazines capable of holding more than ten rounds in California or expressly allows the importation or sale in California of magazine boxes, tubes, bodies, or drums, which are capable of holding more than ten rounds.

b. Nothing in this injunction limits the rights of B & L Productions or its vendors to sell the following repair or replacement parts for large-capacity magazines: followers, follower springs, follower buttons, follower locks, follower lock springs, lips, nozzle rubbers, lip set pins, inner base set pins, release valves, charging valves, inner tubes, inner bases, inner base seals, base plates, base plate locks, bases, base lock pins, block retainer plugs, locking plates, and inserts.

C. Plaintiff shall take nothing further from B & L Productions in connection with the Complaint except as provided in this Stipulated Injunction and Order for Entry of Judgment and as provided in the Settlement Agreement executed by Plaintiff and B & L Productions.

D. Except as otherwise provided in the Settlement Agreement, Plaintiff and B & L Productions shall bear their own costs, fees, and expenses.

E. Pursuant to the request of the Plaintiff and B & L Productions, this Court shall retain continuing jurisdiction to enforce the Settlement Agreement and Release.

Summary of past and current litigation in California regarding the ability of event promoters to hold gun show events on government property

Non-Litigation

Santa Clara County Gun Ordinance (non-litigation) – In May 2018, the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved an ordinance that prohibits the possession, sale, or discharge of firearms and the possession or sale of ammunition on county property, including the Santa Clara County fairgrounds. The ordinance exempts the County-operated Field Sports Park shooting range, as well as peace officers, on-duty members of the military, and authorized conceal carry weapon permit holders. The ordinance does not prevent lawful gun owners from possessing or using firearms on private property or from buying guns at licensed vendors throughout the county. Final approval of the ordinance is expected at the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors' June 5, 2018 board meeting.

San Francisco and San Mateo Counties Gun Show Ban (non-litigation) – In May 2018, State Senator Scott Weiner and State Senator Jerry Hill are considering introducing legislation to ban gun shows at the Cow Palace (1-A District Agricultural Association). Because the Cow Palace is on State property that straddles San Francisco and San Mateo Counties, neither county has the authority to prevent the Cow Palace from renting its facility to gun show promoters. As of the date of this memorandum, legislation has not been introduced to ban gun shows at the Cow Palace.

Los Angeles County Ban on "Ultracompact Handguns" (non-litigation) – 16 years ago, the Los Angeles City Council approved a ban on the sale or transfer of "ultracompact firearms," even if those firearms were listed on the Department of Justice's "Roster of Handguns Certified for Sale" in California. On September 20, 2016, the National Rifle Association and California Rifle & Pistol Association sent a pre-litigation demand letter to the City Council stating that the ordinance was preempted by California law and that because California law permitted the sale of some of the weapons prohibited under the ordinance, the ordinance was invalid. On August 29, 2017, and in response to the demand letter, the Los Angeles City Council unanimously approved an ordinance to repeal the ban.

San Carlos Moratorium on Firearm Retailers (non-litigation) – On November 13, 2017, the City of San Carlos recently proposed and adopted a temporary moratorium on firearm retail businesses as a result of several anti-gun residents complaining of a newly proposed gun store. The City of San Carlos may extend the moratorium up to two years so that it has sufficient time to retain an expert to study the issue of gun violence and zoning restrictions related to gun stores.

Litigation

Teixeira v. County of Alameda, 873 F.3d 670 (9th Cir. 2017)

A business owner challenged a County of Alameda ordinance that required, among other things, "that businesses selling firearms in unincorporated areas of the County be located at least five hundred feet away from any of the following: schools, day care centers, liquor stores or establishments serving liquor, other gun stores, and residentially zoned districts." The Court of Appeal held, among other things, that: (1) the ordinance does not infringe Second Amendment rights of potential customers of prospective gun store operator; (2) the ordinance does not interfere with Second Amendment right to provide ancillary training and certification services in county; and (3) the Second Amendment does not independently protect a business owner's right to sell firearms.

National Shooting Sports Foundation, et al., v. Pleasant Hill [Contra Costa County Superior Court (Civil Case No. MSN13-1922)]

In 2013, the City of Pleasant Hill passed an ordinance placing certain limitations on the sale of firearms and ammunition, including the requirement that all businesses that sell firearms and/or ammunition obtain a permit issued by the Pleasant Hill Police Chief after a determination by the chief that the permit applicant meets certain standards identified in the ordinance. In December 2013, City Arms East, LLC and the National Shooting Sports Foundation filed a lawsuit challenging the ordinance. After several years of protracted litigation and motion practice, the parties entered into a settlement agreement. As part of the settlement agreement, the lawsuit was dismissed on February 19, 2016 and the City of Pleasant Hill agreed to pay approximately $400,000 in attorneys' fees.

Calguns Foundation v. County of San Mateo (2013) 218 Cal.App.4th 661

Gun owners filed a lawsuit challenging a local ordinance that precludes the possession and use of guns in the county's parks and recreational areas. The Court of Appeal upheld the validity of the ordinance concluding that it was not preempted by state law.

Nordyke v. King, 681 F.3d 1041 (9th Cir. 2012)

Gun show promoters filed suit challenging constitutionality of county ordinance prohibiting possession of firearms on county property. California Court of Appeal held that ordinance as applied to promoters' gun shows did not violate Second Amendment.

Fiscal v. City and County of San Francisco (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 895

Plaintiffs challenged a local ordinance prohibiting: (1) virtually all city residents from possessing handguns; and (2) all city residents, without exception, from selling, distributing, transferring and manufacturing firearms and ammunition. The Court of Appeal invalidated the ordinance as preempted by state law.

Nordyke v. King (2002) 27 Cal.4th 875

Gun show promoters brought suit challenging county ordinance prohibiting the possession of firearms on county property, alleging that ordinance violated First Amendment and was preempted by California regulations. California Supreme Court concluded that whether or not the ordinance is partially preempted, the County has the authority to prohibit the operation of gun shows held on its property, and, at least to that extent, may ban possession of guns on its property.

Great Western Shows v. City of Los Angeles (2002) 27 Cal.4th 853

Gun show promoter filed suit to bar county from enforcing ordinance prohibiting the sale of firearms and ammunition on county property, alleging, among other things, that ordinance violated First Amendment. California Supreme Court held (1) that state law does not compel counties to allow their property to be used for gun shows at which guns and ammunition are sold; and (2) a county may regulate the sale of firearms on its property located in an incorporated city within the borders of the county.

Cal. Fire & Pistol Association v. City of West Hollywood (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1302

Plaintiffs filed suit to bar a city from enforcing an ordinance which banned, within city limits, the retail or wholesale sale of any handgun which the City classifies as a "Saturday Night Special," alleging that the ordinance was preempted by state law. The Court of Appeal upheld the validity of the ordinance, concluding that it was not preempted by state law and did not violate equal protection or due process.

CROSSROADS OF THE WEST

PO Box 290 • Kaysville, Utah 84037-0290 • (801) 544-9125

Dear Tim Fennell
Chief Executive officer,

I understand that there are many questions about my involvement at gun shows here at Del Mar. There will simply not be enough time to explain it all in the allotted 2 minute window.

Let me assure you that despite what you may have read or heard, I have absolutely been to every Del Mar gun show since 2001. I went many years before that, as well, but I understand that your concern lies in the time frame from 2001 forward. I co-managed the Del Mar gun show with my brother, Jeff, until October 2001. In December 2001, I began managing the shows without a managing partner. Jeff has not attended any shows at Del Mar since October 6-7, 2001.

I have enclosed a copy of our accounting of airline purchases that correspond with my travel to and from the Del Mar gun show from 1997 to present. If you will take the time to examine these accounting documents, you will find that they validate my travel schedule.

Also included in this packet is a description of what a Certificate of Eligibility (COE) is and what I do before each and every show. I have included a certified copy of my license so you have the reference information required to make phone calls or do whatever research you deem necessary.

I hope you will take the time to read the "Gun Show Producer Certificate of Eligibility" that I wrote, which explains the process for obtaining and using the COE. I think you will find that it answers many of your questions.

Let me reassure you that Crossroads of the West operates in compliance with every applicable law and we require that our vendors conduct their operations in compliance with all laws.

Best regards,

Tracy T Olcott,
President
Crossroads of the West Gun Shows

GUN SHOW PRODUCER CERTIFICATE OF ELIGIBILITY

A Certificate of Eligibility (COE) and a Gun Show Producers license (GSP) is required by any individual who desires to produce gun shows in the state of California (Penal Code Section 16800 and 27200 through 27350). The COE is issued by the Department of Justice (DOJ), Bureau of Firearms and must be renewed annually. Crossroads of the West had the very first COE/GSP license issued by the state of California, issued to Lynn S Templeton.

At the beginning of each year, a list of our planned gun shows is submitted to the California DOJ so they can staff appropriately for the shows, both in the office and undercover at the shows. Additionally, a security plan approved by the facility is submitted for their review per Penal Code 12071.1. Any changes to our event calendar must be submitted to the DOJ so they are aware of our show dates and locations.

Each week that a gun show takes place, a list of all individuals who wish to sell firearms is submitted by the COE/GSP to the DOJ for approval. Included on the list are the seller's address, phone number, Drivers License number and their COE license number (gun sellers have a different COE category than those who produce gun shows). Only those with approval from the DOJ can facilitate the sale of a firearm. Any other individual selling firearms must use one of these approved license holders in order to begin the sale of a firearm.

When a person decides to purchase a firearm, they must first obtain a Firearm Safety Certificate (FSC). This is a test administered by an agent licensed by California DOJ. The test is 30 questions consisting of True/False and Multiple Choice and demonstrates a basic knowledge of firearm handling and safety. Once a FSC is obtained, they can begin the process of purchasing a firearm. The FSC testing can be done at the gun show or at any gun store in the state and is valid for 5 years.

The process for purchasing a firearm at a gun show is the same if it were purchased from any retail or gun store. Once they find what they want to purchase, the buyer and seller find a state approved, licensed firearms dealer to begin the process. The approved dealer takes possession of the firearm from the seller and holds it until the 10 day waiting period and a state and federal background check is complete. The dealer is responsible for completing the necessary paperwork (form 4473, a federal document) and recording the transaction in their bound book that is reviewed and audited by DOJ. This process connects the buyer to the federal database of firearms owners.

After the waiting period is complete, the buyer can pick up their firearm at the licensed dealers place of business. At that time, the buyer must demonstrate practical knowledge of gun handling and safety for that particular firearm. If the buyer is denied through the background check process, the firearm can be returned to the seller, who must then go through a background check to get their own firearm returned.

Re: Gun Show at Del Mar Fairgrounds

Dear Ms. O'Leary,

I understand the question has arisen whether there is a First Amendment right to hold a gun show involving possession, display, and sale of firearms at the Del Mar Fairgrounds. While the Board of Directors may wish to seek legal advice from its own counsel, I write to state my office's position on that question. This letter addresses only First Amendment issues and does not concern Second Amendment or other legal questions.

The First Amendment protects speech, expressive conduct, and expressive association. See Hurley v. Irish-Am. Gay, Lesbian & Bisexual Grp. of Boston, 515 U.S. 557, 569 (1995); Texas v. Johnson, 491 U.S. 397, 404 (1989); Roberts v. U.S. Jaycees, 468 U.S. 609, 622 (1984). The scope of protected expression is broad but not limitless. "It is possible to find some kernel of expression in almost every activity a person undertakes—for example, walking down the street or meeting one's friends at a shopping mall—but such a kernel is not sufficient to bring the activity within the protection of the First Amendment." City of Dallas v. Stanglin, 490 U.S. 19, 25 (1989).

In general, the conduct involved in the possession, use, and sale of firearms, or the gathering of individuals for such conduct, is not protected by the First Amendment. See New York State Rifle & Pistol Ass'n, Inc. v. City of New York, 883 F.3d 45, 67–68 (2d Cir. 2018) (noting "[t]ypically a person possessing a gun has no intent to convey a particular message, nor is any particular message likely to be understood by those who view it" and holding "participation in recreational and competitive shooting events … does not constitute expressive association under the First Amendment").

As the Ninth Circuit has noted, "a gun itself is not speech." Nordyke v. King, 319 F.3d 1185, 1189 (9th Cir. 2003). In addition, "the sale itself" of a firearm "is not commercial speech." Id. at 1191. "As possession itself is not commercial speech and a ban on possession at most interferes with sales that are not commercial speech," a prohibition on the possession or sale of firearms in a given place "does not infringe [a person's] right to free commercial speech." Id.

"Where the symbols on the gun (not the gun itself) convey a political message," the First Amendment is implicated, but the mere presence of a few such decorated guns "at a show at which the vast majority of the prohibited guns bear no message whatsoever" does not necessarily mean a prohibition on possessing guns would violate the First Amendment. Id. at 1190. Assuming the display of firearms at a gun show may involve certain elements of speech or expressive conduct, it does not violate the First Amendment to prohibit gun shows on government property. Nordyke v. King, 681 F.3d 1041, 1043 n.2 (9th Cir. 2012).

Different issues would be presented if the government prohibited speech about guns on government property, as opposed to the possession, sale, or use of guns themselves, but I see no First Amendment obstacle to prohibiting gun shows on government property.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

David Loy

Re: Crossroads of the West Gun Shows

As a City Council Member for the City of Vista, I represent many constituents in my city who attend and enjoy the Crossroads of the West Gun Show at the Fairgrounds in Del Mar and I am writing to express my support for the renewal of their contract for five (5) gun shows with no new restrictions.

As your Mission Statement says, the Fairgrounds is a "public assembly facility" providing a wide range of activities and events "for the benefit of all" San Diego County residents. While you state that "no tax monies are used in the operations of these facilities" the Fairgrounds is, nonetheless, a state-owned entity, provided for the benefit of all and as such, I submit that no one city has the power to summarily dictate the use of this facility.

The Crossroads of the West Gun Show is a legal business operating in a lawful manner, promoting local business owners while providing firearms education, proficiency, and safety. In addition, Crossroads of the West has held its show at the Fairgrounds for 30 years and they have enjoyed an impeccable legal and safety record during this time.

On behalf of my Vista constituents, I respectfully request that you renew the contract with Crossroads of the West Gun Shows.

Very Sincerely,

Amanda Young Rigby

Something to Consider Regarding the Gun Show

The Del Mar Gun Show is a legal activity. Horse Racing at Del Mar is also a legal activity.

No person or animal has been killed or injured at the Gun Show. People and animals were injured and killed as a result of Horse Racing.

If you set a precedent of disallowing a long-standing legal activity by submitting to the demands for elimination of the Gun Show by a vocal group of anti-gun extremists, then what do you think will be the next logical target for elimination by an extremist group or groups.

Board of Directors and CEO, Del Mar Fairgrounds
22nd District Agricultural Association
2260 Jimmy Durante Blvd.
Del Mar, CA 92014

Honorable Board Members and CEO:

We write to urge you to end the gun shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds, a state-owned property that has prided itself in offering agricultural, educational, recreational, and entertainment events in a safe and "family friendly" environment. We are not fighting the Second Amendment, but strongly support efforts to ban the gun shows at this public venue.

With over 38,000 U.S. firearm fatalities in 2016, it is critical to address gun violence as a major public health problem. Gun shows glorify gun culture for our youth, many of whom now fear a mass shooting at their school. Promoting the sale of more guns and ammunition at the Fairgrounds may contribute to future homicides, firearm injuries, suicides, accidental deaths, and gun trafficking. Target shooting has also been identified as the cause of at least 9 County forest fires, putting the lives of firefighters and residents at risk.

We adopted a public health approach to evaluate the pros and cons of gun shows, considering empirical research, a focus on prevention, and community stakeholder engagement. Our group, all of whom are now retired, include a professor of Public Health, two Public School teachers, and a professional from the business community. Several other NeverAgainCA members also contributed their observations and insights, including those who visited the gun shows and met with students from 26 diverse San Diego County schools. All of us have resided in communities near the Del Mar Fairgrounds for 20+ years, and three of these cities have passed resolutions to ban the gun shows.

Thank you for reading and considering the case made in the following document. We hope you will put child and community safety above Fairground profits, and act to end the gun shows at your upcoming meeting. Prevention of future gun violence is key. Our youth need to know that you are doing everything in your power to insure their future safety and well-being. The decision you make on September 11th could save a child's life and help to protect your own loved ones.

Banning Gun Shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds:

A Call to Action for Gun Violence Prevention in San Diego County Communities

Summary

Residents of San Diego County and the state of California have suffered mass shooting incidents and continue to witness high numbers of gun deaths. Yet despite these tragic events, guns and ammunition are regularly sold at publicly-owned facilities, including the Del Mar Fairgrounds. Communities near the Fairgrounds and students from schools throughout the County have urged the Del Mar Fair Board to cease hosting gun shows. Adopting a public health approach, the following document provides a rationale for terminating gun shows at the state-owned Fairgrounds.

Background

The vast majority of public health scientists and criminologists agree that the more guns, the more homicide and crime. A review of research by the Harvard Injury Control Research Center reveals that with higher levels of household gun ownership, there are more gun homicides, total homicides, gun suicides, and accidental gun deaths.[1] Firearms are now the second leading cause of death for American children and teens.[2] In an average month, 50 American women are shot to death by an intimate partner, and the risk of homicide increases 5-fold when the partner owns a firearm.[3]

Gun sales are currently increasing in California and nationally. In 2016, there was a 15% increase in California's gun-related homicide rate, reversing years of decline beginning in 2008.[4]

Given the latter research and recent trends, NeverAgainCA and communities surrounding the Del Mar Fairgrounds have urged Fair Board members to adopt a public health approach to reducing gun violence and protecting the public's safety. The national Institute of Medicine defines a public health approach as including 3 major elements: a focus on prevention, a reliance on scientific research to identify risk and patterns, and multidisciplinary collaboration, including community engagement, to address the problem. Adopting this approach, we respectfully present reasons to terminate the Crossroads Gun Shows at the publicly-owned Del Mar Fairgrounds. Our opposition to these shows is based on: 1) Detrimental Effects of Celebrating Gun Culture; 2) Negative Impacts on Students and Families, Schools, and Communities, and 3) Legal Risks to the Del Mar Fair Board.

Detrimental Effects of Celebrating Gun Culture

Gun shows have been described as a "flea market for firearms," enabling participants to buy, sell, and trade firearms and firearm-related accessories. California gun show attendees, including young children, encounter vendors and tables covered with thousands of conventional handguns (including semi-automatic pistols), shotguns, rifles, antique/replica guns, knives, and swords. Vendors also sell gun parts and accessories, ammunition, body armor, books, and merchandise only peripherally related to guns and shooting, such as t-shirts and jewelry.

In 2009, the Violence Prevention Research Program at the University of California, Davis Department of Emergency Medicine produced a report, Inside Gun Shows: What Goes on When Everybody Thinks Nobody's Watching.[5] This report documents the broad range of activities that take place at gun shows, identifying activities that that pose problems for the public's health and safety. The report is based on direct observations made at 78 gun shows in 19 states, including the Crossroads of the West Gun Shows in Del Mar.

In addition to identifying several illegal practices observed at gun shows, the UC Davis report highlights 3 aspects of a gun show's social environment that may contribute to future firearm violence. These include: 1) facilitating children's access to firearms, 2) promoting objectification and violence in relationships between men and women, and 3) endorsing violence as a problem-solving tool. Photographs in the report and recently taken at the Del Mar Gun Show raise questions about whether these events are truly "Family Friendly." The report notes that "Children receive a steady stream of messages encouraging gun use, largely untampered by information or behaviors promoting gun safety. Their involvement progresses from observation and imitative play in the preschool years through independent exploration to active participation in the buying and selling of guns by early adolescence. Messages endorsing the use of violence--sometimes indiscriminate violence—to address complex social and geopolitical problems are widespread. Support for alternative approaches was never observed."[5, p 207-208] The researchers further found "frequent expressions of misogyny in both the products available and sentiments expressed by attendees," with women devalued and treated as objects of sexual gratification.[5, p 220-221]

Gun shows also feature technical books on specific guns, how-to manuals for gun maintenance and modification, and weapon-making, including "manuals for converting conventional weapons into machine guns, for making silencers, for making and using explosive devices, and for shooting down an airplane." [5, p 204] T-shirts and bumper stickers with pro-gun messages "are ubiquitous," but more concerning are "materials promoting violence and irresponsible gun use" (e.g., bumper stickers reading 'Execute Antiwar Demonstrators' and 'When in Doubt, Empty the Magazine'). [5, p 216] Some gun shows also feature white supremacist materials.[5]

Clearly, there is no unitary gun show culture and gun show attendees have different experiences at different shows. However, NeverAgainCA and Brady Campaign attendees at the March and May 2018 Crossroads Gun Shows in Del Mar observed several immediate safety concerns for young children and youth, including guns and knives on tables that were easily accessible to unsupervised children.[6] Observers also noted a failure to check all attendees' bags for their contents at the gun show entrance, posing a risk for visitors to bring loaded weapons into the crowded Fairgrounds.

Negative Impacts on Students and Families, Schools and Communities

Local Students Fearful of Mass Shootings at School

There have been 5 school shootings in San Diego County (Grover Cleveland Elementary School/ San Diego, Kelly Elementary School/Carlsbad, Santana High School/Santee, Granite Hills High School/El Cajon, San Diego State University), killing 7 and injuring 29 students and adults. Moreover, in May 2018 Torrey Pines High School canceled classes, athletic contests, and other school events after receiving a mass shooting threat from a former student.[7] Two other threats to harm Torrey Pines students, including one warning of a mass shooting, occurred in February 2018. Thus, it is not surprising that hundreds of local students have voiced fears and anxiety about the possibility of mass shootings in their schools, seriously disrupting their academic experience and learning environment.

A recent national study by the Pew Research Center found that the majority of teens (57%) are 'very worried'or 'somewhat worried' about the possibility of a shooting occurring at their school, and only 13% said they are 'not at all worried.'[8] Nonwhite teens, including 73% of Hispanic students, were even more fearful than their white peers. Parents of teen students expressed similar levels of concern, with 63% very worried or somewhat worried about a shooting happening at their child's school.[8] Active shooter drills are now held in many County schools. Fears for children's safety are also shared by the federal government. Recently, the Department of Homeland Security announced a grant program to teach high school students "mass casualty survival techniques" in the event of school shootings, including "medical triage and bleeding control techniques to help victims who have sustained traumatic injuries until first responders arrive." [9]

After the Parkland shootings, NeverAgainCA members met to discuss student fears and violence prevention strategies with children and youth from 9 Elementary Schools, 4 Middle Schools, 9 High Schools, and 4 Colleges throughout the County. Represented were students from Cardiff-by-the-Sea, Carlsbad, Carmel Valley, Del Mar, Encinitas, La Jolla, Oceanside, Poway, San Diego, San Marcos, Solana Beach, Torrey Highlands, Vista, and 4S Ranch. Students expressed fears about the potential for future school shootings, with many sharing their belief that "one could now come to my school." Students also voiced their determination to actively work for school safety and violence prevention initiatives. Some students created clubs to combat school and community violence, organized walkouts to honor the Parkland victims, established an anti-violence Instagram site, and organized a community town hall meeting to discuss school safety at a Clairemont mosque. A large student group created murals, artwork, poetry, and music aimed at banning the Del Mar Gun Shows and reducing gun violence, which they displayed at the NeverAgainCA gun show protest in July 2018. A CD of their work is being provided to Fair Board members.

Students from local communities have also appealed directly to the Del Mar Fair Board to terminate the gun shows. For example, A 15-year old Canyon Crest Academy student addressed Board members at their August 14, 2018 meeting, stating:

"Holding these (gun) shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds demonstrates just how careless adults have become with their own and their children's safety....Gun shows perpetuate a culture in which having a weapon designed for military use and capable of ending dozens of lives in seconds is normal or necessary....It is nothing less than callous and apathetic to hold these events which glorify killing machines, despite San Diego's youth having shown how vehemently we oppose their ability to rip apart classrooms and families, and our confidence that we are safe. I am ashamed that this event has been allowed to continue in light of all of the children who have died due to the inability of adults to take decisive actions on gun control."

Guns Associated with Increased Risk for Suicide

Another danger associated with gun ownership is completed suicide. Half of all gun deaths in California are suicides.[10] Suicide is also the second most prevalent cause of U.S. deaths for youth and young adults aged 10 to 24 years.[11] Multiple studies over two decades reveal a strong association between the presence of a firearm in the home and an increased risk of suicide for both the gun's owner and his/her spouse and children.[11]

Guns are not the most frequent way to attempt suicide, but they are the most fatal. Gun availability increases the risk because most attempts are impulsive. One study found that among those who made near-lethal attempts, a quarter took less than 5 minutes and 70% less than an hour between the decision to kill themselves and an actual attempt.[11] Among individuals who survive suicide attempts, about 90% do not go on to kill themselves later on.[12]

Suicide is the leading cause of death among military veterans, and military suicide rates are increasing. Firearms currently account for 68% of veteran suicides. [12] A recent study of student veterans who had deployed to Iraq and/or Afghanistan, reported that 20% of these veterans reported suicidal thoughts with an actual suicide plan, and almost half (46%) had thought about killing themselves at one point.[13] These rates are 6 times higher than college students in general. When a public health professional discussed this study with several student veterans (now successfully managing their PTSD), the students shared that they would have likely purchased a gun for a suicide attempt from a gun show. When pressed for reasons, veterans stated, "It's the most hassle-free way to get a gun," and "Gun show sellers are there to make the sale... They don't really care about what you want (the gun) for." Notably, more than 240,500 veterans reside in San Diego County, comprising more than 13% of the County's population.[14]

The strongest predictor of how likely a person will die from a suicide attempt is a gun in the home. A gun at home makes suicide 3 times more likely, regardless of the type of gun, method of storage, or number of guns in the household.[11] Thus, limiting community access to guns and keeping guns out of the home can play a key role in suicide prevention, especially for youth and young adults.

Communities Near the Fair Grounds Opposed to Gun Shows

Residents of Del Mar and communities near the Fairgrounds have largely opposed the gun shows, viewing the ban as an important step in combatting the glorification of gun culture and reducing the incidence of firearm violence. City Councils of Del Mar, Solana Beach, and Encinitas have passed resolutions opposing gun shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds. NeverAgainCA has collected letters from residents and representatives of community groups and civic organizations throughout the County urging termination of the gun shows. Notably, the Fair Board's written policy directs Board members to consider local community values, standards, and ordinances when entering into Fairground contracts. Last year the Fair Board rescinded the contract for a festival focused on medical marijuana[15]; arguably, a gun show poses even greater safety risks for Fairground visitors.

Other California communities have also sought to ban gun and ammunition sales on public properties. In August 2018, State legislators passed Senate Bill 221 that would end the sale of guns and ammunition at the Cow Palace in Daly City; the bill now goes to the Assembly for a final vote and will then advance to the Governor with the Assembly's support. San Mateo County, Marin County, Santa Clara County, San Francisco, and the city of Glendale have successfully banned gun shows.[6] Notably, Democratic gubernatorial candidate Gavin Newsom has also supported a ban on gun shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds.[16]

Gun Shows a Source of Illegally Trafficked Firearms

Most violent criminals don't purchase their guns directly from gun shows. However, researchers have found that gun shows are "the critical moment in the chain of custody for many guns, the point at which they move from the somewhat-regulated legal market to the shadowy, no-questions-asked illegal market."[17] A report released by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF), examining federal gun-trafficking prosecutions involving 84,000+ illegal guns, found that 30% of the total cases had a gun-show connection.[18] Additionally, both U.S. and Mexican officials express concerns about gun trafficking to Mexico. ATF reported that 87% of firearms seized by Mexican authorities and traced over a 5 year period came from the U.S., noting that these firearms have become increasingly more powerful and lethal. Many of these firearms were originally purchased from gun shops and gun shows in southwest border states.[18]

Target Shooting Responsible for Multiple County Forest Fires

Gun shows also provide easy access to ammunition for target shooting. One clear risk of target shooting in the current environment is the possibility of forest fires. In May 2017, the "Gate Fire" was started at a popular shooting spot near Jamul and the community of Dulzura. While the exact cause is under CalFire investigation, video evidence suggests that it was accidentally started by target shooters.[19] The fire burned more than 2,000 acres and caused over 500 campers and residents to evacuate. A dozen wildfires occurred in San Diego County's Marron Valley and Sycamore Canyon areas between 2011 and 2015, 9 of them caused by target shooters according to the Bureau of Land Management.[19] Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent to extinguish them. Recent forest fires ignited by target shooting in California (e.g., 2017 Detwiler Fire in Mariposa County near Yosemite) and other states have likewise led to major fires, burning forests, destroying homes and businesses, and placing firefighters and residents at risk for injury and loss of life.

Legal Risks for the Del Mar Fair Board

Investigations of Crossroads of the West Gun Shows

Ten organizations, led by the San Francisco Chapter of the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence and including NeverAgainCA, have united to ask the California Department of Justice to conduct a comprehensive investigation of Crossroads of the West Gun Shows.[20] Crossroads is the company that produces gun shows at state-owned venues in California, including the Del Mar Fairgrounds and Cow Palace in Daly City. Concerns include the discovery that the Crossroads CEO and former Vice President have been convicted of violating federal firearms laws and apparently did not disclose those convictions when entering into gun show contracts with state agencies. The organizations' letter also cites a 2013 lawsuit brought by the San Francisco City Attorney against Crossroads and several gun sellers, alleging efforts to evade the state ban on the sale, manufacture, and import of large capacity magazines. Still another concern is a federal criminal complaint connecting a Crossroads vendor in Las Vegas and Phoenix to the off-premises sale of illegal armor piercing/incendiary ammunition to the mass shooter at the 2017 Las Vegas music festival.

NeverAgainCA brought several of these allegations to the attention of the Del Mar Fair Board. President Steve Shewmaker reported that the Board has begun an investigation of Crossroads with the Department of Justice.[21] All ten of the organizations noted above question the wisdom of hiring persons convicted of violating federal gun laws to run community gun shows.

Liability in Accidental or Negligent Shootings at Gun Shows

There have been numerous documented violations at Crossroads of the West Gun Shows in Del Mar and at their other venues, including 35 accidental (negligent) discharges of loaded firearms.[22] If a gun show vendor's or attendee's carelessness contributed to the incident, the courts will consider several factors to determine liability. Crossroads carries only $1 million of liability insurance, a figure woefully insufficient given the potential for significant injury or death resulting from an accidental or negligent shooting. In some cases, the State's 22nd District Agricultural Association (which manages and operates the Del Mar Fairgrounds) may also face some degree of responsibility and liability, and be a party in a major lawsuit. Personal injury attorneys will help accidental shooting victims sue for large damage awards to obtain a sense of justice and begin their recovery process. For example, medical treatment, skilled nursing care for serious injuries, and compensation for lost work and pain and suffering will likely cost millions. Wrongful death cases may also be brought by heirs of shooting victims for very substantial damage awards.

Request for Action: End Gun Shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds

In summary, members of NeverAgainCA join cities near the Del Mar Fairgrounds and students and families from throughout San Diego County in urging the Fair Board to ban future gun shows. This call to action is based on a public health approach to gun violence and suicide prevention, drawing on empirical research, a prevention focus, and stakeholder engagement in decision-making. Gun violence takes a daily toll on the lives of Californians and Americans. Individuals and families have grown tired of the thoughts and prayers, flags at half mast, and sorrowful speeches that accompany senseless shootings.

The time for action is now. Families and communities are demanding meaningful solutions to the gun violence epidemic. Thus, we ask the Del Mar Fair Board to put child and community safety above Fairground profits from gun and ammunition sales. Fair Board members have a unique opportunity to reduce access to firearms that may be used in future school shootings, homicides, suicides, and violent crimes----inflicting grief and trauma on survivors, friends and families, teachers, first responders, and health professionals. Please ban the gun shows to ensure our publicly-owned Fairgrounds can live up to its mission as a safe and "family friendly" venue. Your decision on September 11th could save the life of a child and help to protect the people you love.

Mr. Steve Shewmaker
Del Mar Fairgrounds Board of Directors
2260 Jimmy Durante Blvd.
Del Mar, CA 92014

Dear Mr. Shewmaker,

In June, a San Marcos middle schooler brought a hand gun to school. I meant to write a letter to the Fair Board while this news was fresh. The sad thing is that it doesn't really matter when I write my letter, because every day there is more gun violence, and increasingly frequent mass shootings. We now live in a country where this is becoming commonplace. Yet we cannot let this be something we just accept.

- Beyond the horrific headline-making mass shootings, the broader spectrum of gun violence is tearing apart families and communities. In an average month 50 women are shot and killed by intimate partners. Our country is awash in guns. In 1994 the average gun owner had 4.2 guns, in 2013 the average gun owner has 8.1 guns. Why do individuals need this type of arsenal?

In a recent Denver Post article, statistics are cited that the trend of toddlers involved in shooting themselves or someone else is on track for the third year at slightly more than once a week, a sad sliver of some 33,000 gun deaths annually in the United States. Americans are 25 times more likely to be murdered with a gun than people in other developed countries.

Fair directors would probably have to concede that firearms purchased through the gun shows held on your property have already been used in criminal pursuits, domestic violence, suicide and heart-breaking accidents involving firearms.

Is the Fair Board going to wait until one of the guns purchased at the gun show is part of a school shooting? What has to happen before the directors realize that they are part of this horrible problem of gun proliferation in this country? Do we really want to live in a world where all public spaces have to be under surveillance, and children have to walk through metal detectors and armed guards to get an education? That sounds like a dystopian nightmare to me.

Please take a stand on this important issue, and take it on the side of your neighbors, the majority of whom want fewer guns in their community. Coupled with the questionable scruples of gun show management including shady under the table and parking lot transactions, this is the time to end the gun shows.

The fairgrounds should serve the community to provide a space for families and fun. I can't understand why one would think hosting a showcase of firearms that are killing people is consistent with this, American, or even more to the point at this location, California, values.

Please stop the gun shows.

Thank you,

Julie Hampton

To: Del Mar Fairgrounds Board of Directors, Steve Shewmaker, President; Tim Fennell, CEO

Dear Honorable Board Members and CEO,

I am writing to you because I am opposed to any gun shows at the Del Mar Fairgrounds. This is why I am opposed to the gun shows:

- The Del Mar Fair Grounds is state-owned property. I agree with Lt. Governor Gavin Newsom that the proliferation of firearms through gun and ammunition sales should not take place on state-owned property.
- The father and son, Crossroads president and show director, are convicted felons. Convicted firearms felons shouldn't be allowed near a gun show, and clearly should not be allowed to own, operate or promote gun shows.
- Crossroads of the West Gun Shows facilitated the worst mass murderer in modern times. The Las Vegas shooter found his ammo supplier at a Crossroads Gun Show.

The Crossroads of the West Gun Show glorifies and normalizes the use of guns to our youth. We need to change the gun culture!

Children are afraid to go to school for fear of getting shot and gun shows stoke that fear.

Guns are now the third-leading cause of death for all Americans under 18.

Additional comments:

I urge you to End Gun Shows on state owned property. Guns and ammunition should be sold only at registered and licensed gun stores.

Sincerely,

Signature Nadine Nilsteins

Dear Honorable Board Members and CEO,

I am opposed to hosting gun shows anywhere int eh state of California until the laws surrounding the purchase of weapons and ammunition is more tightly controlled. You doubtlessly aware that the transfer of weapons and ammunition at these events are very loosely controlled and increase the danger to our communities. I refer specifically to the incident it the College area of San Diego recently that injured public safety officers. The perpetrator was heavily armed and armored.

Five gun shows a year at the Del Mar Fairgrounds are far too many. I urge you to end gun shows on state owned property.

Sincerely,

Subject: Gun Show

Dear Honorable Board Members and CEO,

My name is Frederick William Hornbeck. I am Professor Emeritus at San Diego State University where I enjoyed forty-two years as an active faculty member. I live in University City not far from Del Mar and have done so for many years. Our Fair Grounds and the activities that they host are close to me. Beyond that, those activities affect everyone in the 22ND District whether they participate directly or not. They are important locally and beyond.

I write to oppose the hosting of gun shows by the 22ND DAA at the Del Mar Fair Grounds. Your responsibility as a public board for the stewardship of our Fair Grounds is complex and I appreciate that. You must consider fiscal as well as legal, moral, and ethical considerations in your deliberations and decisions. We trust that you do so and thank you for your service.

I am sure that each of you is aware of the substantial concerns and arguments proffered by those supporting as well as the large number opposing the use of our beautiful Fair Grounds for the promotion of gun use and ownership. Please consider this matter carefully. I hope that you will decide that the public costs of easy access to firearms are sufficient reason to make this public venue unavailable for this commercial enterprise.

Respectfully,

Fred Hornbeck

CONTRACTS COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION: GUN SHOWS

The contracts Committee recommends that the Board of the 22nd DAA not consider any contracts with producers of gun shows beyond December 31st 2018 until such time as the District has put into place a more thorough policy regarding the conduct of gun shows that:

- Aligns gun show contract language with recent changes in state and federal law
- Details an enhanced security plan for the conduct of future shows
- Proposes a safety plan
- Considers the age appropriateness of such an event
- Grants rights for the DAA to perform an audit to ensure full compliance with California Penal Code Sections 171b and 12071.1 and 12071.4. These audit rights may be delegated at the discretion of the 22nd

This policy shall be presented to the Board no later than the December, 2019 Board meeting.

They are following the issue closely and hope to have something to report in 2019.

EVENTS DEPARTMENT
September 2018

Revenue from Events for the month ending July 31st 2018, which includes event generated revenue from facility rentals, reimbursed costs (equipment, labor and administration fees), food & beverage and parking totaled $6,359,495 as compared to $5,873,455 for 2017, an increase of $486,040, or 8.28% more than the same period last year.

Due mainly to T Rex and Gem Show events being both longer and much larger in attendance than last year, together with the three events with West Coast Dressage held at the Arena, which was far larger than the one held last year. This not only created greater event income, but contributed to larger production revenues, as well as increases to parking, feed store and Premier Food & Beverage revenues.

Other big revenue contributors that were not part of last year's calendar, were Ballast Point, the Cesar Chavez Concert, Zinpro, Zeta, Via Sat, Barrett's Horse Auction, Pinner's Conference, Tour de Cure, Robertson & Brklacich, Gun Owners PAC Dinner & Autism Tree Project.

SAVE BIG ON GETTING PETRIFIED OUT OF YOUR WITS AT THE SCREAM ZONE

DEL MAR, Calif. (July 25, 2018) – Fear-mongers, unite! This year's Scream Zone boasts an architecture of horror like no other. It's happening Sept. 28-Oct. 31 at the Del Mar Fairgrounds (aka 'Scaregrounds'). Buy your tickets by Aug. 31 and save $10 off the Triple Haunt or VIP admission. Tickets go on sale Aug. 1 and can be purchased here after that date.

The Scream Zone is a labyrinth of horrors and attractions, including a collection of three terrifying haunts: The Haunted Hayride, KarnEvil and House of Horrors. You'll find all the terrifying elements of a horror show, including actors popping out of the walls, a fire-breathing dragon and more zombies than you can count.

Returning for its 21st year, San Diego's largest, goriest and freakiest fright fest runs for 24 select days of terror. On opening night, Sept. 28, the Triple Haunt is slashed to half-price.

ABOUT THE HAUNTED ATTRACTIONS:

You'll definitely want to huddle together on the Haunted Hayride, where every turn is a new survival challenge. This year you'll visit "Motel Hell" and the "Garden of Heads" after an inevitable wrong turn that leads deep into the mouth of the "Mutants Mine Shaft," among other terrifying stops!

KarnEvil is a haunt where fairy tales become blood-curdling 'scary' tales! Watch out for the giant flesh-eating rabbit who hunts down Alice in Wonderland, the pack of teeth-gnashing wolves gnawing into Little Red Riding Hood and the evil-infused Hansel and Gretel who join the witch in frantic attacks on unsuspecting victims.

House of Horror features room after room of frightening and surprising scares. You'll be trapped in zombie lair, scorched by a fire-breathing dragon, introduced to Penny Wise (your drooling, blood-hungry host), and you'll find human body parts listed as today's "special cuts" on Ivan the Medieval Butcher's menu!

Facility News:

Surfside reopens for business on Thursday, September 6.

Los Alamitos conducts the Los Angeles County Fair live racing dates for three weeks through Sunday, September 23 on a four-day-a-week basis.

Santa Anita follows with their opening day on Thursday, September 27, a 6 week season, including the Breeders' Cup from Chuchill Downs on November 2-3. Therefore, Surfside will be open for the two day BC festival.

Del Mar opens for live racing on November 8, and once again, Surfside will be closed during the 4 week racing season, ending on December 2.

While we are serving our customers at Surfside in the Fall, we will once again offer our NFL Football Contest each week. A cash prize of $150 is offered to the winners of the football contest each week (winner receives $75, 2nd place $50, 3rd place $25). We have the NFL package so every game can be seen at Surfside.

In the month of October, a daily random drawing from our Diamond Club data base will be conducted. One free Saddle Club admission ticket is awarded to the person whose name is drawn and is present at Surfside and identifies themselves.

Through October 28, with an uncashed winning mutuel ticket from the 2018 Del Mar summer season, Surfside offers one free admission to Diamond Club members. If a person is not a Diamond Club member, it free and virtually instantaneous to sign up for membership.

Bingo Del Mar is back from the summer hiatus starting Sunday, September 23. We always guarantee Game 10 to pay $1000, plus a $200 consolation.

Status of Audited Financials

For the year ended 12/31/2017

The District's audit firm completed its field work in May, 2018. We are now waiting for pension information, pursuant to Governmental Accounting Standards Board 68, from the State Controllers Office. It is anticipated that the SCO's report will be made available in October. Once this is provided to the Department of Food and Agriculture, they will allocate the total pension liability for all fairs to each individual fair, based on its payroll that is subject to CalPERS. We hope to have the report completed by the end of November.
